What's inside

1 How to Get Testimonials

5 repeatable ways to pull proof out of happy customers — with scripts.

2 Landing Page Layout

The section-by-section anatomy of a page that converts.

3 Meta Ads Trainings

Structure, creative, budget, and the numbers that actually matter.

4 The Funnel Kit

The main funnel types — frameworks and when to use each.

How to use this: each module is self-contained — jump to whatever you're working on.

Steal the scripts and frameworks word-for-word, then swap in your own offer and customer language. Nothing here needs to be reinvented — just filled in.

How to Get Testimonials

1

Proof is the shortcut

People trust other buyers more than they'll ever trust you.

Why it matters. You can write the best copy in the world, but a stranger saying "this worked for me" beats every clever line you'll ever write. Testimonials collapse skepticism, kill risk, and do the selling for you. The goal isn't a testimonial — it's a system that produces them on autopilot.

THE ONE RULE

Never fake it, and never settle for "great course, thanks!" A vague testimonial is worthless. The good ones are specific, show a before & after, and crush a real objection ("I thought it was too technical for me — it wasn't").

THE 5 WAYS TO GET THEM

WAY 1 — TIMING

The Direct Ask (at the win)

The single biggest lever is when you ask. Ask the moment someone hits a result or expresses excitement — not weeks later when the feeling's gone. Watch for the trigger: a happy DM, a "this is amazing" comment, a first sale, a milestone.

SCRIPT — THE ASK

"Love hearing that 🙌 Would you be up for sharing that in a quick sentence or two I can show other people thinking about joining? Even just — where you were before, what changed, and how you feel now. Totally optional, no pressure."

WAY 2 — LEVERAGE

The Incentivized Ask (video)

Video converts 10x harder than text. Most people won't do one for free — so trade for it. Offer a bonus, a discount, a shoutout, or entry into something. Make the value bigger than the friction.

SCRIPT — THE TRADE

"Quick one — I'm collecting a few short video wins from members. If you record a 60-sec clip (just talk to your phone, no editing), I'll [send you X bonus / comp your next month / feature you]. Want the 3 questions to answer?"

WAY 3 — DO IT FOR THEM

The Interview Method

The easiest testimonial for the customer is the one they don't have to write. Hop on a 10-min call, record it, ask the questions, and you edit it into a clean clip or pull the best quotes. Removes 100% of their effort.

THE 4 QUESTIONS THAT PULL GOLD

1. Where were you before you started — what was frustrating?
2. What made you finally decide to try this?
3. What changed — what's the result or the moment it clicked?
4. What would you say to someone on the fence right now?

WAY 4 — IT ALREADY EXISTS

Screenshot Harvesting

You're probably sitting on proof right now. Every "omg it worked", every excited DM, every win posted in your group or Discord, every positive comment — that's a testimonial. Screenshot it (get a thumbs-up to use it) and build a swipe file. Raw, real screenshots often out-convert polished graphics.

- Search your DMs / group for words like "thank you", "worked", "first sale", "finally"
- Keep a folder: /proof — every screenshot goes in it forever
- Blur last names if needed; keep it authentic, don't over-design

WAY 5 — AUTOMATE IT

The Milestone Trigger

Bake the ask into your funnel so it fires automatically at the moment of maximum happiness — after a result, a completed module, or a set number of days. Use an automated email/SMS or a form request tied to the milestone. Set once, collect forever.

TRIGGER EXAMPLES

- 7 days after purchase → "How's it going so far?" (opens the door)
- On completing Module 1 → "You're moving fast 🙌 mind sharing a quick win?"
- On a logged result → auto-send the testimonial form

Turn it into a machine: pick one automated trigger (Way 5) so testimonials come in without you thinking, and run one manual sweep (Way 4) every week through your DMs and group. That combo alone will out-produce 99% of businesses.

One page, one job

A landing page isn't a website. It has exactly one goal.

The mindset. A website lets people wander. A landing page walks them down a single path to a single action — watch the VSL and buy / book / opt in. Every section either moves them toward that action or it gets cut. No menu, no distractions, no exits.

3 RULES THAT NEVER CHANGE

1. One goal, one CTA. The same button, repeated down the page. 2. Mobile-first. 80%+ of traffic is on a phone — design for the thumb. 3. Clarity beats clever. A confused visitor never buys.

THE ANATOMY, TOP TO BOTTOM

Section	What it does
1. Headline	The big promise. The #1 result they want, in their words. This does 80% of the work — spend the most time here.
2. Sub-headline	The "how / for who / without what." Adds the mechanism and removes the fear ("...even if you've never done it before").
3. The VSL / Hero	Your video sits right under the headline, above the fold. This is the salesperson. Everything else supports it.
4. Primary CTA	One clear button, visible without scrolling. Action + outcome ("Start the Challenge — $6.95").
5. Problem	Agitate the pain they're living with now. Make them feel understood before you pitch.
6. Solution / Mechanism	Introduce your unique way. The "new opportunity" that makes the old struggle irrelevant.
7. Proof	Testimonials, screenshots, results, logos, numbers. Stack it right after the promise to justify the claim.
8. Offer stack	What they get, itemized, with value. Make the price feel like a steal against the stack.
9. Guarantee	Reverse the risk. Money-back, results-based, "try it" framing. Kill the "what if it doesn't work" fear.
10. FAQ	Answer the top 5 objections as questions. Each answer removes one more reason not to buy.
11. Final CTA	Restate the promise + the offer + urgency. The same button, one last time.

THE DETAILS THAT MAKE OR BREAK IT

- Above the fold is everything. Headline + VSL + CTA must all be visible before any scroll. That's your whole pitch in 3 seconds.
- Repeat the CTA. Same button after every major section — people buy at different moments.
- Contrast the button. One color used only for the CTA so the eye always finds it.
- Cut the nav bar. No header menu, no footer links out. The only way forward is the button.
- Speed = money. A slow page bleeds buyers. Compress images, keep it light.

The test: show your page to someone for 5 seconds, then take it away. If they can't tell you what it is, who it's for, and what to do next — the top of your page isn't done yet.

Meta Ads Trainings

3

Creative is king

Meta's algorithm is smart. Your job is to feed it great ads.

The truth up front. You don't win at Meta with secret targeting hacks anymore — the algorithm handles targeting better than you can. You win with creative and offer. 80% of your results come from the ad itself. Spend your energy there.

THE 3 LEVERS, IN ORDER

1. Creative (the hook + ad) — the biggest lever by far. 2. Offer (what/price) — the second. 3. Audience — let Meta figure it out. Broad + great creative beats narrow + mediocre.

KEEP THE STRUCTURE SIMPLE

Layer	Do this
Campaign	One campaign, sales/conversions objective. Use Advantage+ / CBO so Meta distributes budget.
Ad set	Broad audience. Age/country only. Let the algorithm target — don't over-slice.
Ads	3–5 different creatives (different hooks/angles). This is where the game is won.

Don't build 40 ad sets. Complexity fragments your data and starves the algorithm. Simple structure, many creatives.

CREATIVE — WHERE YOU ACTUALLY COMPETE

- The hook is 90%. First 3 seconds decide everything. Stop the scroll or the rest never gets seen.
- Test angles, not tweaks. Different reasons to care (fear, speed, ease, status, proof) — not the same ad in blue vs green.
- Native > polished. Ads that look like content out-perform ads that look like ads. UGC, talking-head, screen-recordings.
- Match the message. The ad's promise must match the landing page headline — or you pay for clicks that bounce.

BUDGET & TESTING

1. Launch 3–5 creatives in one ad set. Give it a few days and enough budget to exit the learning phase — don't judge on day one.
2. Kill the losers, keep the winners. Let data decide, not your gut.

3. Feed winners more budget slowly (scale ~20% at a time) or duplicate into a higher-budget campaign.
4. Always be making new creative. Every ad fatigues — the winner today dies in 2–4 weeks. The pipeline never stops.

THE NUMBERS THAT MATTER

Metric	What it tells you
CTR	Is the creative/hook working? Low CTR = weak ad, fix the hook first.
CPM	Cost to reach 1,000 people. Rising CPM often = fatigue or bad relevance.
CPC	Cost per click. Downstream of CTR — improve the ad to lower it.
CPA	Cost per purchase/lead. The number that decides if you're profitable.
ROAS	Return on ad spend. The scoreboard. Everything else is a clue to move this.

The whole game in one line: great hook → stops the scroll → matching landing page → clear offer → proof → buy. If an ad isn't working, diagnose top to bottom: is it the hook, the offer, or the page? Fix in that order.

The Funnel Kit

4

Pick the right shape

A funnel is just a path. Match the path to the price and the trust needed.

The core idea. The higher the price and the bigger the leap of faith, the more steps you need to build trust before the ask. Cheap + simple = short funnel. Expensive + high-consideration = longer funnel with a human or a webinar. Here are the main shapes — frameworks only.

BEST FOR: LOW-TICKET, DIRECT SALE

1. The VSL Funnel

A video does the selling, then a direct buy. Fast, scalable, works great for offers people can decide on quickly.

Flow

Ad → VSL landing page → Checkout → Order bumps & upsells → Thank you

BEST FOR: MID/HIGH-TICKET, NEEDS TEACHING

2. The Webinar Funnel

Teach → build belief → pitch at the end. Great when you need to shift how someone thinks before they'll buy. Can be live or automated (evergreen).

Flow

Ad → Registration page → (Confirmation + reminders) → Webinar → Offer → Checkout

BEST FOR: HIGH-TICKET, HUMAN CLOSE

3. The Call / Booker Funnel

Filter and book qualified leads onto a call where a human closes. Used when the price justifies a conversation.

Flow

Ad → VSL / application page → Qualifying form → Calendar booking → Sales call → Close

BEST FOR: BUILDING AN AUDIENCE / COLD TRAFFIC

4. The Lead Magnet Funnel

Give value free in exchange for an email, then sell over follow-up. Best when people aren't ready to buy on first contact.

Flow

Ad → Opt-in page (free thing) → Thank you (soft offer) → Email nurture → Offer

BEST FOR: TURNING COLD INTO BUYERS FAST

5. The Challenge / Tripwire Funnel

A tiny paid offer (like the $6.95 challenge) turns a stranger into a buyer immediately, then ascends them to the real offer. Buyers buy again — that first small "yes" changes everything.

Flow

Ad → Low-ticket offer → Bumps & upsells → Delivery + experience → Ascension to core offer

How to choose: match the funnel to the price and the trust gap. Under ~$50 → VSL or challenge. Mid-ticket → webinar. High-ticket → call funnel. Not ready to buy → lead magnet first. Start with one, get it profitable, then add the next.

That's the toolkit. Now go build.
